

I grew up in the village and have happy (if distant) memories of attending St Erth School. After leaving Cornwall to go to university I built a career in finance in London, specialising in advising companies about their pension plans. After 15 years in the big city I decided to move back home to St Erth in 2016, and now split my time between Cornwall and London.

My eldest son completed seven happy years at St Erth School in 2025, with his younger brother (at the time of writing in summer 2026) about to move up to Godrevy class. I am proud to have been a member of the LMC since 2018 and chair since 2023.
